An answer to an advertisement for school assistant "capable of teaching" classes as far as Homer and Virgil makes one of the best stories in the Dean of Bristol's recent book, "Old and New." "Sir," the answer ran, "with reference to the advertisement in the Times respecting a school assistant, I beg to state that I should be happy to fill that position, but as most of my friends reside in London, and not knowing how far Homer and Virgil is from town, I beg to state that I should not like to engage to teach the classics farther than Hammersmith or Farnham Green, or at the very utmost distance, farther than Brentford."

Malaria.

Have you a slow and intermittent fever, chills creeping up the spinal column, especially in the middle of the day; aching back and limbs, cold hands and feet; flushed face with malarial sensation? These are malaria symptoms. Do not delay, but begin a course of treatment to head off the disease. Pure blood will withstand the attack of poison better than impure blood; and as pure blood is the result of a healthy condition of the stomach, you should get the stomach in order first. Much of women's daily woe is due to kidney trouble. Sick kidneys cause backache, languor, blind headaches, dizziness, insomnia and urinary troubles. To cure yourself you must cure the kidneys. Profit by the experience of others who have been cured.

Mrs. William W. Brown, professional nurse, of 16 Jane St., Putnam, N. J., says: "I have not only seen many suffering and many deaths from kidney trouble, but I have suffered myself. At one time I thought I could not live. My back ached, there were frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and the kidney secretions were disordered. WORLD'S FAIR GATES ARE OPENED WIDE

Consummation of an Event Four Years in Preparation.

ALL OF ST. LOUIS WAS THERE

An Elaborate Programme of Exercises Followed by the Starting of Everything Moving by President Roosevelt.

An Elaborate Programme of Exercises Followed, at Noon, by the Starting of Everything Moving by the Touch of the Electric Button by President Roosevelt.

St. Louis, April 30.—To-day the City of Palaces, where marvel is set against marvel until the wonderful becomes a matter of course, has thrown its gates open. Its monster buildings, with PRESIDENT DAVID R. FRANCIS.

Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Their wealth of products and processes, are now open for inspection. The people, the habits, the garbs, the arts, the industries, the birds and animals and plants of every climate will reach through the eye the complete lesson of the twentieth century's first decade. In the person of one of its greatest ministers the government of the United States was present to address the people of St. Louis and their guests. The governor of Missouri and the chief executives of many sister states represented the various sections of our country. Foreign commissioners, selected for their eminent achievements, told the message of friendly co-operation in the greatest of modern enterprises. With the opening of the gates the people of this city who have given so nobly of their means and energy to make the exposition worthy of the history of the Louisiana purchase, feel more than repaid for their sacrifices.

Citizens of St. Louis and visitors alike turned their faces westward, and every car line leading toward the World's fair grounds soon began to feel the pressure, so that when the gates were thrown open at the grounds there were thousands at every entrance awaiting admission.

EX-SENATOR THOMAS H. CARTER.

Chairman National Committee. Those who had visited the grounds during the constructive period were agreeably surprised to find what had been done during the past few days in the way of clearing up the grounds, while those who saw the fair for the first time were lost in wonderment at the magnificent spectacle spread out before them. It was as if they had been suddenly dropped down in fairyland. They had heard much, had read much, but were not prepared for the reality, as they had imagined that a large portion of the stories of the magnitude and grandeur of the Ivory City was simply so much talk.

The gathering thousands rapidly spread themselves over the grounds, examining and admiring the stately exteriors of the various buildings, the portals of which were to remain closed until the formal opening ceremonies were concluded by the touching of the electric button by President Roosevelt in Washington that was to start the machinery in motion, set the beautiful cascades running and unfurl the thousands of banners of all nations with which the buildings are decorated.

As the hour arrived for the ceremonies to begin the hosts gradually began to wend their way to the grand plaza, where the exercises were to be held, and it was not long before little else could be seen except one vast sea of humanity, anxiously waiting for the exercises to begin.

The exercises, preceding the formal act of unfurling the flags and opening the exhibit palaces was spectacular and elaborate. They were enacted at the Louisiana Purchase monument, in the heart of the fair and facing the grand cascades, the most beautiful panoramic view in the exposition. There were assembled the representatives of the nations of the earth, state and local dignitaries and distinguished speakers and personages from all parts of the country. At the crowning moment (noon) President Roosevelt, in the White House at Washington, touched the button and started the machinery of the fair.

The programme was so arranged that the officials who have made the fair a possibility were the first to arrive at the monument. The other dignitaries followed. Meanwhile there was an elaborate programme of music by the bands stationed on platforms near

Secretary of War William H. Taft was escorted to the monument by a platoon of cavalry.

The Pike Parade.

Following the regular opening ceremonies came the Pike parade, with its many interesting features. It was in five divisions, and was of a character to make the ordinary circus parade pale into insignificance. It was made up as follows:

First Division.—Jefferson Guards, Band, Grand Marshal Cummings, Chief of Staff E. W. Handlan, Staff, Couriers, Mr. McGarvie and Mr. Gregg, Marshal Hale, Alda, Halsey Band, Fire Fighters, Galveston Flood, Naval Show, Battery Abbey, Scenic Railway, Water Chutes, Old Plantation, Cliff Dwellers, Jim Key, Pop Corn.

Second Division.—Band, Marshal Stone, Magic Whirlpool, Alaska, Cairo, Constantinople, Chinese Village, Siberian Railroad, Incubators, Golden Chariot, Palais du Costume, Paris.

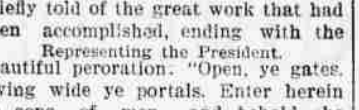

Third Division.—Band Marshall Williams, Creation, Old St. Louis, Hereafter, Ancient Rome, Indian Congress and Wild West, Glass Workers, Moorish Palace, Fair Japan, Hagenbeck.

Fourth Division.—Band, Marshall Gaston Akoun, Moving Pictures, Solomon's Temple, Temple of Mirth, Hunting in the Ozarks, Streets of Sevilla, Over and Under the Sea, Irish Village, Asia and Empire of India, Alps.

Fifth Division.—Band, Marshal Viljoen, Boers, Roller Chairs, Observation Wheel, Restaurant Concessionaires, Poultry Farm, Water Company, Band, New York and North Pole, Twenty-Mile Team, Launch and Gondola, Miniature Railroad.

The great assemblage was called to order by President Francis, after which came an invocation by Rev. Frank W. Gansulus, of Chicago.

President Francis of the exposition company was then introduced, and briefly told of the great work that had been accomplished, ending with the beautiful peroration: "Open, ye gates. Swing wide ye portals. Enter herein ye sons of men, and behold the achievements of your race. Learn the lessons here taught, and gather from it inspiration for still greater achievements."

SEC. OF WAR WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Continuing on down the line came the addresses by the prominent officials connected with the exposition, and after an address by Secretary of War Taft, representing the president of the White House, in the presence of the members of the diplomatic corps, chief justices and associate justices of the supreme court, members of the cabinet, the president of the senate, and other persons distinguished in official life, pressed the button connected by wire with the exposition grounds, which caused the releasing of the electric current, and the great machinery of the exposition began to revolve, the same act unfurling the flags on all the buildings and setting the great Cascades in motion.

Brief History of the Fair.

The Louisiana Purchase exposition, comprising a comprehensive collection and exhibition of the world's peoples, products and industries, modes of living, diversions, transportation facilities, in fact, a complete universal concentration of arts, manufactures and products of the soil, mine, forest and sea, had its inception in 1898, and was completed in April, 1904. The exposition commemorates the centennial of the purchase from France, in 1803, by the United States, of the vast strip of territory stretching from the Gulf of Mexico to the Dominion of Canada, and extending from the Mississippi river to the crest of the Rocky Mountain range, and since known as "The Louisiana Purchase territory."

The entire Mississippi valley originally belonged to France by right of discovery and exploration. In 1763 Spain acquired the Louisiana territory after the treaty of peace at Paris, when France, which had ceded Louisiana to Spain under the secret treaty of 1872, gave up all her other possessions in North America to Great Britain. Spain held the territory for 37 years, returning it to France on the demand of Napoleon Bonaparte, through the secret treaty of St. Ildefonso, October 1, 1800. Napoleon was then first consul of France. The United States, by the revolutionary war, had won sovereignty over the territory between the Atlantic ocean and the Mississippi river. Spanish officials were still in authority at New Orleans, although the Louisiana territory had been returned to France. The hostile attitude of the Spaniards towards Americans navigating the Mississippi resulted in agitation which led President Thomas Jefferson to undertake the purchase of the city and island of New Orleans, in order to control the mouth of the Mississippi. Robert R. Livingston, United States minister to France, and James Monroe, afterwards president of the United States, were accordingly commissioned to conduct the negotiations for this transfer. Instead of the safe of the island of New Orleans alone, Napoleon proposed the sale of the entire Louisiana territory for $15,000,000, in order to secure funds for the equipment of his armies.

The representatives of the United States at once accepted the offer, and the treaty was signed at Paris, April 30, 1803. The formal transfer of the territory took place at New Orleans, December 20, 1803, and the Upper Louisiana, at St. Louis on March 10, 1804.

The newly purchased territory embraced 1,600,000 square miles, and is now divided into the following 14 states and territories: Louisiana, Ar-

Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Indian territory, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

In the fore part of 1898 an editorial was published in a St. Louis paper to the effect that the centennials of the great events in the history of the United States were not all over, and predicting that the greatest was yet to be held—the centennial of the acquisition of the Louisiana territory. This editorial was taken up in the press and commented upon, resulting in organized agitation by the Missouri Historical society. The clamor for a commemorative centennial became so general that, in response to strong public sentiment, Gov. Stevens, of Missouri, issued a call for a convention of delegates representing the states and territories embraced in the Louisiana Purchase territory, to be held in St. Louis on January 10, 1899. The convention was attended by 93 delegates appointed by the respective governors, and it was unanimously voted to hold an exposition, international in its scope, in St. Louis. The convention extended an invitation to the United States government to assist in the enterprise, and appointed an executive

Plans were devised for raising money to build the exposition buildings and defray the general expenses, and it was fixed that $15,000,000, the amount paid for the territory, should be raised, one-third by private subscription, one-third to be paid by the city, and one-third to be asked from the United States government.

On December 1, seven months after the opening, the exposition will have officially terminated, and the Louisiana Purchase exposition will have passed into history as probably the greatest and most comprehensive exposition that the world has ever known.

Pikers of every nation on earth, garbed in their native costumes, and carrying the instruments peculiar to their tribes, marched in a procession.

The marine parade on the grand basin and the lagoons, including more than 140 craft, followed immediately the end of the land procession. The combined processions made the longest parade that has been seen in St. Louis in many a day, and one of the most unique ever seen in the world.

No parade, it is believed, has ever offered so many varieties of the human

SIX WERE KILLED IN WRECK

Bodies of Two More Victims Recovered at Kilmuckish—Orders Were Violated.

St. Louis, May 2.—Two more names were added Sunday to the list of those killed early Saturday morning in the wreck of the Iron Mountain Hot Springs special train near Kilmuckish, Mo., a town twenty miles south of St. Louis. The name of the passenger killed, whose body could not be identified Saturday, is believed to be Hoffe, but nothing is known of his former residence or relatives. His body was removed by the Missouri Pacific railroad Sunday to Hoffmeister's undertaking establishment, in South St. Louis, where the bodies of the other victims were taken, and it will be buried by the railroad company.

William Cotter, general manager of the Missouri Pacific, stated last night that the entire blame for the wreck was attached to the dead engineer, John M. Bailey, in whose pockets were found peremptory orders directing that his train be taken through the siding, on which the wreck occurred, at moderate speed. "Conductor Austin told me," Mr. Cotter said, "that he had read the order to Bailey."

CAPTURED AFTER DESPERATE FIGHT

J. A. Delaney, Wanted in Several Cities, Captured in Philadelphia.

HE HAD DECEIVED HIS WIFE

Wife Comes From a Good Family in Baltimore, and Did Not Know That He Was Wanted By Police.

Philadelphia, May 2.—John A. Delaney, who, the police say, is wanted in St. Louis, New York, Washington, and particularly by the authorities of Baltimore, who charge him with forgery, was arrested at the Hotel Hanover early Sunday, after a sensational struggle with two detectives, who owe their lives to their presence of mind. The arrest was made in the presence of Delaney's wife, who was in bed. The wife comes from a good family in Baltimore, and did not know that he was wanted by the police until the detectives broke into their bedroom. The couple were married in January. She had always believed him to be a traveling man.

Located at Hanover Hotel.

According to the police, Delaney and his wife left Baltimore on a trip, which she supposed was for business. The detectives located them at the Hanover. Assuming themselves that the couple were in bed, Detective Thomas, of Baltimore, and Tall, of this city, broke in the door, and a struggle instantly ensued in the dark with Delaney, who had jumped from bed at the first sound. A porter turned on a light, but not until he attempted to reach a revolver that was under a pillow and another under the bed. While dressing he said he wanted a vest and stepped to a trunk, but the detectives anticipated him, and found a third pistol. He made three more moves, such as to get a collar or a handkerchief, and in each place the detectives found a knife. Having been foiled at every turn, Delaney gave up, and according to the detectives, said he would have made his escape if he could have reached any one of the six weapons, even though he had to kill both of them.

Mr. Delaney, dumfounded at the whole proceeding, almost went into hysterics from surprise and fear. Among Delaney's personal effects were found chloroform and a sponge, a silk bag, which the detectives say is patterned after the kind used by sand-bagging highwaymen; two pieces of rope, a chisel and a razor.

Held Without Bail.

The prisoner was taken to the city hall and held without bail to await requisition papers from Maryland. Mrs. Delaney's mother and sister were telegraphed for, and they arrived Sunday afternoon and took the heart-broken woman home.

Delaney told the police that his present plight was due to his attempt to have his wife remain in the same social position she was in when he married her. Delaney also said he was at one time confidential agent of Chris Ven Der Ahe, of St. Louis.

The letters of Miss Merkle, whose picture is printed above, and Miss Claussen, prove beyond question that thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries and womb are annually cured by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gradual loss of strength and nerve force told me something was radically wrong with me. I had severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation. I strongly objected to this and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found that my judgment was correct, and that all the good things said about this medicine were true, and day by day I felt less pain and increased appetite. The ulceration soon healed, and the other complications disappeared and in eleven weeks I was once more strong and vigorous and perfectly well.

"My heartiest thanks are sent to you for the great good you have done me."—Sincerely yours, Miss MARGARET MERKLEY, 275 Third St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Miss Claussen Saved from a Surgical Operation.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It seems to me that all the endorsements that I have read of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound do not express one-half of the virtue of the great medicine really possesses. I know that it saved my life and I want to give the credit where it belongs. I suffered with ovarian trouble for five years, had three operations and spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicines but this did not cure me after all.

"However, what doctors and medicines failed to do, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Twenty bottles restored me to perfect health and I feel sure that had I known of its value before, and let the doctors alone, I would have been spared all the pain and expense that fruitless operations cost me. If the women who are suffering, and the doctors do not help them, will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, they will not be disappointed with the results."—Miss CLARA M. CLAUSSEN, 1307 Penn St., Kansas City, Mo.
